THE POPE'S REPLY.

His Address to 5,000 Pilgrims, Denouncing the Italian Government.

Rome, April 21.—The 5,000 Italian pilgrims presented their address to his Holiness Pope Leo XIII., in the hall over the vestibule of St. Peter's, yesterday, and the Pope in reply made a stirring address, which will be read by him twelve cardinals and twenty archbishops and bishops, besides many of the Roman nobility. The Pope was arrayed in white, flowing robes, and as he descended his staircase he was hailed with shouts of "Long live the Pope King." Speaking of the Italian Government he said:

"Among the grave charges which the apostolic ministry which we exercise, one of the bitterest and most poignant is that which concerns the condition of the Church in Italy and the faith of the Italian people. If we have always to signalize the dangers which menace us at this time, we have a motive more just to do so, as for some time now these perils have become more grave; besides, facts speak for themselves. The war which the Catholic Church is waging against the Italian Government is openly sustained here by the public powers which have declared in favor of these parties. The danger which menaces us is not only indirectly concern the church and religion, but is in Italy made even more direct by the inspiration of the Italian Government. There is, in fact, tangible evidence that the action of the public powers in ecclesiastical policy fully responds to their secular aspirations and their culpable designs, which henceforth are directed against the church. It is sufficient to record the articles of the new penal code against the clergy, the standards of June last, the divorce law in force, which are in course of preparation. It is a continuation of the war which was commenced by the destruction of the papal States, and which all along its course manifests itself more and more in the intentions of the legislators, that is to say, in a course of action without truce against religion and against the Church of Jesus Christ."

He then addressed more particularly the pilgrims and concluded with a blessing. Afterwards he admitted some of the leaders to kiss his feet.

MANSFIELD KING'S CONFESSION.

Hails County People Inclined to Believe There Is Some Truth in It.

Mr. John W. Taylor, a Justice of the Peace at Perry, Hails County, writes that there is probably considerable truth in the confession made by Mansfield King, the alleged murderer of the murder of Silas Carter. Mr. Taylor says that some of King's statements are undoubtedly correct. He was arrested for attempting to rob his uncle, John W. Scofield, and skipped his bail. It is also correct that King was a citizen of Hails County, was robbed as stated by King, and the figure of a man named King was seen in the vicinity of the murder. The man Silas Carter named in the confession disappeared mysteriously from Perry about nine days after the murder, and has not been heard from since. When he disappeared he had just finished a job of painting on a schoolhouse, and was known to have drawn some money for it. He was a quiet and industrious man, and was not known to have any enemies.

Mr. Taylor states that King's confession is generally believed in Hails County, and that he is not allowed to go without investigation. When arrested for attempting to rob his uncle he threw out hints of having been guilty of a much more serious crime, but would not say what the crime was.

The accumulation of Sunday is always felt on Monday, and it gives the tellers much extra work. To-day was no exception. The votes received to-day made many big changes in the list. As previously stated, no returns are printed on Monday and Saturday. The list, however, will be found in full in to-morrow's paper, corrected up to as late an hour as possible. The excitement over the result continues to grow as the end draws nearer. Voters should remember that but five more ballots will be printed. The polls positively close at the time announced. No ballots will be printed after Sunday, May 25. All the work must be done within five weeks. If your teacher is not ahead, you can have more ballots on Sunday. The method of election is explained in the rules. See them.

Any person can vote who complies with the following conditions:

AN ENUMERATOR TELLS OF HIS TROUBLE IN THE TENEMENT QUARTERS.

A Rare Place to Study Life and Learn How to Face the World Lives—A Chalk-Line Boarding House—Mothers Who Can't Tell Their Children's Ages—Not an Easy Berth.

A typical book sent stopped a reporter on the street this morning with, "Hello, old boy; I've got it."

"Got what?" asked the reporter.

"Why, didn't you know I was scrambling for a place as census enumerator? Sure; and it's all fixed."

"Well, luck to you."

"Look! Oh, mamma! It's the hardest job I ever had, and why I take it I don't know, but I've got it. I had a district in this city ten years ago and only made $40 out of it in two weeks of the hardest work I ever did in my life; but I'm at it again."

"You'll have fun out of it, anyway."

"Fun? When I asked for the job I had one eye out for the place and the other for fun. I'll meet plenty of queer people, I warrant you, and as I am authorized by the law to enter every house and extract the desired information from any adult, under penalty of a fine for refusal to aid me, you see I have things pretty much my own way in the end, though I often have to do a heap of talking before I get what I want, and in some instances, no doubt, will have to call the nearest policeman."

"Suppose the census enumerator begins on one of those five-story apartment houses with four sets of rooms on each floor, each set occupied by from four to nine persons. He starts in the basement as follows:

"You are the janitor, aren't you?"

"Yes, (respectfully, as is the way with janitors who think you want them to show you an empty flat).

"How many families in the house?"

"You can't tell no books here," (Glancing at your pocket watch).

"I don't want to tell books. I've come to take the census."

"But I'm a government official, and I've come to take the census."

"Well, if you don't know what the census is, it's time you found out. I'm going to count the people who live in this house, and if you interfere with me I'll call a policeman and have you fined. Look at that!" and I show him my written authority signed by the superintendent of the census and the local superior. The seal on this generally fetches the janitor, and so I pass the watchdog and get inside the house, and some of 'em'll take anything I kin hit their head with."

A GOOD CATCH.
It is a good catch for any business house when it catches the popular heart and the popular patronage. A good name is certainly better than riches in the business world. That's why we've been so anxious to get and, having secured, are so anxious to retain the good will of the people at large. Our increasing business shows in how large a measure we have been successful. Truly, the people are with us, and our constant aim is to so treat them that they'll remain with us. Our goods, our prices, and our methods of business make it an object to trade here. The people have not been slow to appreciate this fact, and we find the present season no exception to those which have already passed into our history. In point of business increase and general popularity with the people we still stand in the front rank. We stand here because we have served the people well; we shall stand here as long as we remain in business, because we are serving them well to-day in Clothing, Hats and Furnishings.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21.—Among the bills reported from committee and placed on the calendar were the following: Senate bill to provide for an additional Associate Justice of the Supreme Court for the Territory of Montana; House bill to amend the act to extend the fees of certain officers over the Territories of Arizona and New Mexico.

On motion of Mr. Hawley the Senate proceeded to consider the House bill to provide for celebrating the anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus by holding an international exhibition of arts, industries, manufactures and commerce, to be held in 1901, at Chicago, Ill., in the State of Illinois. The amendment reported by the Senate Committee is the insertion of a new section, to read: "That the Secretary of the New York Harbor in 1893 and for the unveiling of a statue of Christopher Columbus in Washington."

Mr. Hale inquired of Mr. Hawley whether he intended that the Government should turn out the exhibition.

Mr. Hawley replied in the affirmative and stated that a bill for that purpose had already passed the Senate and was now pending in the House.

Mr. Vest said that it seemed to be assumed that the bill would be passed by the Senate. The Senate was under some coercion to pass it, but he did not think it would be passed. The bill would probably pass the Senate by an overwhelming majority, but no measure would be passed by the Senate without the consent of the majority of the Senate. The bill would be passed by the Senate, but it would be for the purpose of the bill, and not for the purpose of the bill. She Forsakes Her Intended Husband on Her Wedding Day.

Per Telegram to the POST-DISPATCH.

FALL RIVER, Mass., April 21.—Antonio Darruda came to this city about a year ago and secured employment in the mills. He is a handsome young man and has a clear olive complexion, shining black eyes and black

Ray. Six months ago he met pretty Alice Roy. It did not take long for friendship to ripen into love, but as Alice feared her parents would object the courtship was kept secret. Her father, a miserly old fellow, Antonio asked Alice to become his wife, and still without her parents' knowledge the young man and girl were secretly married. On the wedding day, and last week the young man, went to the clerk's office and secured a license. He had a fine suit of clothes, a household furniture, which was stored in a warehouse, and a diamond ring. He wore a rich silk wedding dress was fashioned and the wedding day came. The groom had to board-house to which Daruda was to take him. He was to go for a gentleman's good time. The bridegroom felt that Ray's house, where he was met by his prospective bride, was not a very good place to marry but Alice Daruda pleaded and coaxed and finally became angry, but in vain. Miss Daruda was so much in love that she betrayed her wot. A neighbor saw her when Alice announced that she had got married. She told the neighbors and they told Daruda and she obeyed. Daruda swore he would marry her. He was so much in love that he considered Miss Roy his betrothed and will overcome every obstacle to make her his wife.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH.

SENeca, Mo., April 21.—About 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning as Hon. N. C. Gallemore was preparing to draw a pitcher of water from a public well back of Bedford Smith's restaurant, he noticed something white floating on the water about two feet below the curbing which, upon investigation, proved to be the body of a fully matured male infant. The child had evidently been thrown in the well immediately after its birth and had remained there eight or ten days, until it rose to the surface of the water. The authorities were notified and a Coroner's jury summoned.

KANSAAS CITY, Mo., April 21.—The skeleton of Carlat's undertaking establishing, identified several months ago by two women as their brother, was not the remains of their brother, he being alive and well in Kansas. To-day the Kansas City Post-Dispatch (Mo.) is vigorously prosecuting the case against Sherman, the private detective, charging him with the murder of his brother. The Post-Dispatch can prove the skeleton is that of Wrightman. Graves' statement that he had no brother is true. The skeleton is believed to be false. Graves and Sherman are old friends, and it is believed the story came up between them.

ALL CAN GUESS

And Any Guesser May Get a Free Vacation Tour to Europe.

An Offer Which Has Attracted Much Attention By Its Novelty.

Letters Received at the Office To-day Show That People Are Guessing Everywhere, and Are Much Excited, Too—Indian Territory and Other Far-Away Guessers—Questions Answered—Some Valuable Suggestions—State of the Contest To-day.

To-day begins the second week of the guessing contest. One week ago to-day the first coupon was printed, and the subscribers of the Post-Dispatch were invited to guess the "Vote that the highest number in the teachers' contest will receive."

Two teachers will be sent to Europe at the expense of the Post-Dispatch—the two most popular lady teachers in the city. To determine the relative popularity of all St. Louis teachers, the public has been invited to vote. The two teachers receiving the highest number of votes will, being the most popular, be sent to Europe. In addition, the person guessing the vote that will be cast for the teacher receiving the highest number of ballots will also be sent to Europe at the expense of the Post-Dispatch.

Guessers are required to use the coupon printed in every issue of the Post-Dispatch except Sunday. All guesses not written on the official coupon will be disregarded, but all properly filled out official coupons will, on their receipt in the Post-Dispatch building, be numbered, mechanically, in the order of their arrival and carefully filed.

This contest began on Monday, April 14, and will close at 10:30 o'clock Saturday night, May 24. The vote of the teachers will be ascertained by the official recount, which will be completed in the week following, and on Sunday, June 1, the winners in the teachers' contest and the winners in the guessing contest will be announced.

The coupon is very simply constructed and there should be no mistakes in using it. The number guessed should be entered in the white space that is surrounded by scrollwork; the guesser's name and address should be written in the spaces indicated. It is important that the guesser's full name and proper address should be given that if the guess is a winning one the winner can be easily identified.

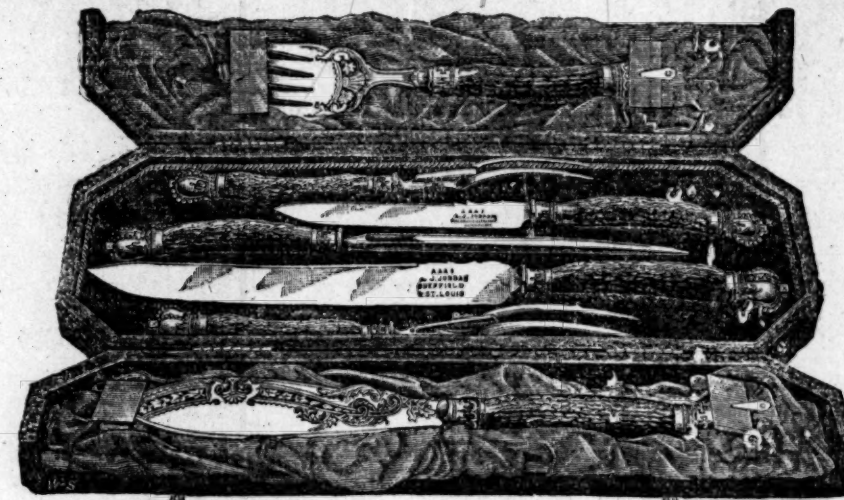

The coupon when filled should be inclosed in an envelope and addressed: GUESS ON TEACHERS' CONTEST, POST-DISPATCH, ST. LOUIS, MO.

This must be remembered. Coupons are numbered in the order they are received in this office, without regard for the dates written on them. If you send in three coupons on one day—say, April 25—the numbers put on them will be consecutive, though you may have dated them April 15, April 21 and April 22. The numbering will not be in accordance with the dates. The numbering is for the purpose of determining the order in which the coupons are received. If at the end of the contest it is found that there are two coupons bearing the winning guess, the prize will go to the maker of the earliest registered number. This contingency is a possibility, but scarcely probable, as the range for guessing is too great.

No one can have any information that would lead him certainly to the right number. The number of ballots cast for any teacher is known only to the tellers in charge of the ballots received and can not be divulged to any other person. Employers, friends, and can not receive the benefit of any other person's successful guess. From Monday, April 21, every guesser has as much information as all other guessers. No one can have any advantage in the contest.

The successful guesser will go to Europe under the guidance of Cook's Tourist Co. at the expense of the Post-Dispatch. The tour will occupy nearly two months, and the guesser will be shown every object and place of interest under the most favorable circumstances. The winner in the teachers' contest and the successful guesser may go together or separately, as they may wish.

With berry bowls at $4, with fine crystal linings; tea services at $16.50, teaspoons at $1.50 per set, bread trays at $4.75, etc., it is no wonder that the people are buying very rapidly these splendid silver-plated wares.

It would scarcely be credited to the greatness of these sales, but the extraordinary values for the money are doing precisely what the Mermel & Jaccard Jewelry Co. are aiming for, the greatest business in their line in America, and they are practically there.

Examine their goods and prices and you will certainly purchase; and while there do not omit seeing their Cut Glass. It is the largest variety and choicest in America, and the prices—well, see them.

IF AH QUONG'S WIFE CANNOT LAND, A MURDER CASE HERE WILL BE DROPPED.

The Murder of Ah Jim by William Mullen and William Pinkston Comes Up in the Criminal Court This Morning and Interesting Complications, Which Best the Prosecution, Are Made Known.

From present appearances the Chinese restriction set will cut a big figure in the prosecution of an important murder case now pending in the Criminal Court in this city. If a Chinese woman is permitted by the authorities to enter the country the case will be prosecuted. If she is sent back to Hong Kong the action will probably be dropped.

This case is against William Mullen and William Pinkston, jointly charged in an indictment returned by the Grand Jury in May, 1889, with murder in the first degree in the killing of a Chinaman, Ah Jim. The continuance is taken on account of the absence of another Chinaman, Ah Quong, who is a material witness in the case. Ah Quong has disappeared and cannot be located.

THE CIRCUMSTANCES
leading up to the arrest and prosecution of Mullen and Pinkston are somewhat peculiar. About 7 o'clock on the evening of October 11, 1888, two negroes entered the laundry establishment kept by Ah Jim and Ah Quong at 140 Hickory street. After a short parley about the price of some uncleaned-for clothing one of the negroes suddenly demanded of Ah Jim that he give him a dollar. The Mongolian protested that he was too poor and started toward a rear door. With a curse the negro drew a revolver and fired at the retreating form. The bullet struck Ah Jim under the left arm and lodged near his heart. He died the following day at the City Hospital.

Both of the negroes made their escape at the time. A few weeks afterwards one James Buaya was arrested on suspicion, he answered to the name of the partner of the negroes. Buaya was arrested on suspicion, he answered to the name of the partner of the negroes. Buaya was arrested on suspicion, he answered to the name of the partner of the negroes.

Catarrh to Consumption.
Catarrh in its destructive force stands next to and undoubtedly leads on to consumption. It is therefore singular that those afflicted with this fearful disease should not make it the object of their lives to rid themselves of it. Deceptive remedies concocted by ignorant practitioners to medical knowledge have weakened the confidence of the great majority of sufferers in all advertised remedies. They become resigned to a life of misery rather than to torture themselves with doubtful palliatives.

But this will never do. Catarrh must be met at every stage and combated with all our might. In many cases the disease has assumed dangerous symptoms. The bones and cartilage of the nose, the organs of hearing, of seeing, and of tasting are affected as to be useless, the uric acid elongated, the throat so inflamed and irritated as to produce a constant and distressing cough.

It seems that Mr. Thompson and some other gentleman informally discussed the matter of utilizing the block for a site for some building on the plan of the Chicago Auditorium and agricultural scheme was a good one, but no steps have been taken to carry it out.
